SENIOR SQUAD ARE ALL SET FOR PLAY-OFF

Tickets Open To Public This Afternoon.

OFFICIALS ANNOUNCED

Enthusiasm Is Reaching High Level As the Big Day Approaches.

With a final work-out at the Stadium yesterday afternoon, the McGill rugby squad completed its training for the play-off against Varsity for the championship of the Intercollegiate series for the 1920 season. Contrary to expectations Coach Shaughnessy will not put the players through a signal practice this afternoon, but will allow the men to rest up for the big struggle which takes place at Kingston to-morrow afternoon.

Final arrangements for the game are rapidly materializing. At a meeting of the Rules Committee yesterday morning at the Limestone City Col. C. F. Constantine, R.M.C., was chosen as umpire for the championship tilt, while Major N. F. Macaulay, R.M.C., was selected as referee. Work on the stands at the Queens Stadium is progressing steadily despite adverse weather conditions and it is fully anticipated that everything will be in readiness to accommodate the large crowd that will fill the grounds to capacity.

Enthusiasm at McGill grows as the game draws daily nearer. Tickets for the game have been selling fairly rapidly and to date more than 500 have passed through the wicket at the Union. This afternoon the sale of the pasteboards will be thrown wide open and it is expected that a goodly number will go to-day. To accommodate the crowd at least two specials will leave the Grand Trunk station on Saturday morning, the first section at 8.30 o'clock and the second section ten minutes later. Featuring the departure of the Red and White squad and its contingent of supporters will be the send off accorded them by those members of the "Thundering Thousand" who find it impossible to make the trip up to the game.

Speculation as to the outcome of the battle for titular honors is still rife. From the Varsity lair comes a story of great confidence in the final score being in favor of the Blue and White squad. Laddie Cassels is expected to retire Joe Taylor, the kicking centre half, in favor of either Snyder or Sullivan. Taylor's kicks were solved by the Red and White players in the last match between the two teams, and, as a result, he had little chance to show any of the class he exhibited in the first game against (Continued on Page 2.)

WRESTLERS HOLD SNAPPY PRACTICE

Large Attendance and Great Improvement Shown At B., W. and F. Club.

Yesterday the wrestlers had a large attendance at their practice. This year the sport has made good headway, due to the interest which is being taken in the sport and the help which has been given by the Union House Committee. These men have gone to great trouble to allow the club to hold its Thursday afternoon practice and still prepare for the Friday dances. To show their appreciation of this kindness on the part of the House Committee, the wrestlers should attend the work-outs regularly and do their best to make McGill the champions at the Assault-Arms.

So far, the attendance has been fairly good, but more material in the heavyweight and featherweight classes is needed. Unless more men belonging to these classes turn out, McGill may have to lose by default. Many of the men who were on last year's team are back, and will form a nucleus, but many places will, beyond the least doubt, be stiffly contested.

Montgomery, who made a brilliant showing at Kingston last year, is back again, and is showing good class, due to his work-outs in the summer. Currie, who hails from the prairies, is also a good man, and appears as though he might displace some man who figured in the Assault-Arms last year. Coach Geo. Smith feels very

FISK'S SEA LIONS PUT IN HARD WORKOUT

Getting Into Shape For Approaching Game.

SPEED TRIALS.

Tests Held With View Of Selecting Men to Compete Against Yale.

With their next game about two weeks off, the Water-Polo team is settling down to frequent hard and snappy practices. Judging by yesterday's exhibition at the Central "Y" tank, the team is keeping in excellent condition, and each man is doing his best. Don Foss and McKenzie, the two new men who are being tried out, are coming up to form in fine shape. Before the actual practices some speed tests were held over a distance of 50 yards. These are being held with a view to selecting men to compete against Yale, in case a swimming contest should be arranged with the latter. Mr. E. Vernot, the coach, was at the tank, and gave the men many useful hints as to their strokes. The practice was fast and closely contested. The team displayed some very nice combination work.

As to the standing of the different clubs, the M.A.A.A. and McGill seem to be pretty well running even. The positions of the different teams in the league follow:

	P.	W.	L.
M.A.A.A.	2	1	1
M.S.C.	2	0	2
McGill	2	2	0

It will thus readily be seen that if McGill wins her next game she will have the championship, as there are only four games to be played altogether in the league. Go to it and win, you bunch of sea-lions!

The next game is scheduled to take place on Friday, December 3. McGill's opponents are the M.A.A.A., and they are to meet in the M.A.A.A. tank.

THE BAR MAIDS

The Law Faculty is a different place. For every stude works with a smile on his face;

It's certainly evident such is the case. Since girls are taking the lectures. The Freshman formerly looked like a wreck.

Now with clean collars his form will bedeck;

Indeed, it is whispered he washes his neck.

Since girls are taking the lectures.

We "Mister" each other most formally now.

And never by chance kick up a row; Our conduct's exemplary, all must allow.

Since girls are taking the lectures.

From using strong language the Seniors shrink

(The effort it costs them you really can't think).

And the prof. now never goes out for a stamp.

Since girls are taking the lectures.

Nobody seems in a hurry to leave.

And tales go about you could hardly believe.

That powder's been seen on a professor's sleeve.

Since girls are taking the lectures.

Where it will end, no one knows, no one cares;

Yet it makes one more careful about what one wears.

And it's costing me now about double in fares (?).

Since girls are taking the lectures.

LAW HOLDS SUCCESSFUL MOCK TRIAL

Mrs. Smith Is Liberated On Personal Bail.

ELOQUENT SPEECHES.

Crowded Room As Principals Of Evening Take Their Seats.

It would certainly appear as if the Law Faculty had a rare gift of "putting their stuff across." Last year's Whiffletree performance is still a lively memory, and last night a further venture was made when a Mock Trial was held under the auspices of the Law Undergraduates' Society in the Law Building, University Street. Although several of the hundred and fifty spectators who crowded the "Court House" were members of other faculties, they were made welcome, and evidenced keen appreciation of the display of learning and hospitality extended to them by the neophytes of the law.

Proceedings began shortly after eight o'clock, when the spectators and officials rose as the Hon. Mr. Justice Greenfields took his seat on the Bench. Begowned lawyers arranged their papers, the Court Crier called loudly for silence, and the spectators crowded forward in their seats to witness the opening of the great Smith Murder Trial.

The jury was then impanelled and sworn by Mr. W. H. Biggar, who performed his duties in a most thorough manner, and whose final charge of "So help you God," almost partook of the nature of an adjuration. There were numerous absentees, and it was some time before "twelve good men and true" could be found, but finally the required number was obtained. These were: Messrs. Barre, Bernard, Cahanna, Caldwell, Callaghan, Cliff, Dobell, Hankin, Hamaroff, Foster, Kavanagh and Larriere.

The accused, Mary Kathleen Johnston Smith, who already was seated in the dock, was the cynosure of all eyes. Of a blonde type of beauty, she was dressed in a manner which, although not exactly ostentatious, at least inclined to the super-smart. It is to be feared that her features had known the beautifying assistance of the rouge-pot and the powder-puff, and her conduct throughout the entire trial elicited much unfavorable comment. Far from appearing appalled at the seriousness of the situation in which she found herself, she repeatedly attempted to catch the eye of jurymen and counsel, in fact made the most eloquent use of her liquid blue eyes. To the indictment charge (Continued on Page 7.)

CATCHY JAZZERS BLOCK TRAFFIC

Police Called To Disperse Crowd Which Gathered To Listen To Mandolinists.

The Mandolin Club practice held last night was marked by an incident which certainly shows how good they are.

The practice was held at Peate's Studio. Next door is Layton's piano store, wherein was placed a poster heralding the coming of the famous Russian Symphony Orchestra. People coming along beheld the announcement and then heard the music. There was no doubt in their minds—the Symphony Orchestra had arrived and was having a rehearsal. Then the crowd began to gather outside, and became so large that the police were called to break them up.

As Mr. Peate said afterwards, "You can hardly blame them for making a mistake like that, with our music so darn good."

There is no doubt about it, the club is about "the best ever." Last night, in addition to the regular turnout, there were cellos, saxophone and flutes. Macdonald College is in for something pretty nice when the club visits them on November 24th.

Next practice, Tuesday, November 23rd, just to get tuned up for Macdonald. Tickets have been ordered for all present last night, but there may be a few left over. Anybody not at this practice may still be able to get one next Tuesday.

Tuesday, November 23rd, 8 p.m. All out and get your ticket and final instructions.

CASE

The Survival of the Fittest

There is a rule upon which our life has been erected. You'll see it every day. You saw it in France and on the Seas. You meet it on the gridiron, in business, at college. At work or play you meet it everywhere.

And fittest means not only fittest from the mental and physical angle. It applies to everything we do.

To be fit—to meet his brothers with a clear look that is unfraid—a man must be fit and clean-cut as to his appearance.

And that, you may say, is simply advertising propaganda. In one way, Yes. For we are of the opinion that honest handicraft, style and value have made The Case Shop qualified to survive in the field of competition.

Just now we are making price adjustments, based on a market decline for spring buying. Business honesty compels us to give our clientele the immediate benefit.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1920.

ALL MCGILL!

The team leaves the city on victory bound for Kingston at 8.30 a.m., Saturday morning.

With their victory comes the Intercollegiate blue ribbon of football at a time when enthusiasm is most welcome and at the end of the 99th year of McGill's splendid life—a satisfaction that we will be able to offer our returning graduates at the beginning of the 100th!

A duty then of all McGill men who are not happy enough to go with the team all the way, is to go with them as far as the railway station—not only to show our high admiration for them and their coach, but to concentrate and resolve in them our united will to win.

This is purposely made short that all may read—and at the same time understand. Thus does it behoove.

All McGill!

TOO LATE

Is it fashionable to be late? Or is it merely an expensive luxury? In either case it seems to be the one unbroken rule of the great majority of College functions, and he who values his time is apt to have his habit of punctuality seriously deranged before he finds that at Old McGill eight-thirty means nine o'clock, and "sharp on time" merely proves that some executive has a sense of humor.

Club meetings usually start a full half hour late. Executives themselves are frequently among the latest arrivals. Dances are scheduled to start at eight-thirty sharp. The strains of the first waltz are seldom heard before nine. As a result the last few numbers are cut in half. When a sufficiently large number have decided they will be among the last to arrive, social functions open their programmes. If you feel in need of a solitary half hour spent in quiet meditation, be on time at your next meeting.

The one thing which the business world demands is promptness. When the majority of the present generation of students make their initial appearance in business life they will receive a shock. That shock will invite most serious reflection. The victim of an unhealthy habit will decide that he has overlooked a principle fundamental in every walk of life—Punctuality. It may be fashionable to be late, but fashion collects a heavy luxury tax.

Campaign News

The committee is pleased to announce that an ample supply of official Endowment Fund cards are available. The Union hall porter and all Faculty buildings have a supply on hand.

To-morrow's lunch is the last, and while we expect to go on receiving cards for the next few days, we would urge all students to sign their cards at once and hand them in to their respective class presidents.

All class presidents are asked to leave all signed cards at the Union with the hall porter, addressed to Hutchison, the campaign chairman, by 12.30 to-morrow noon, so that a decent report can be presented at the down-town luncheon. Any individual student may leave his card at this above office and then notify his class president later of his actual subscription.

Get busy, fellows, and let's clear this thing up at once. The need for quick action is imperative.

The down-town campaign is nearly over, and a large number of subscriptions are required before the objective is reached.

Many of the Popular Amount Subscriptions are coming in, that is $5 for five years, or $25 in all.

Remember this is really a graduate affair. We all will be old grads. when the next call comes. Be on deck this time and help swell the total for "Old McGill."

All class presidents are asked to report in person at the Union at 5.30 p.m. on Friday and Monday, in order to give in their statements.

The Meds. are doing fine. Come on, Arts, Law, Commerce, and all others and get in line.

The R.V.C. have asked for 235 cards, and expect a handsome total. Splendid! R.V.C.

COLUMBIA REGISTRATION

Incomplete registration figures from Columbia University indicate that their enrollment this year will exceed 31,000, a gain of over 35 percent over last year. Columbia will then be the largest educational institution in the world. Their enrollment at the past summer session was over 10,000, the largest in the history of the university.

NOTICES

Members of executives and others are requested to look under this heading for notices of all futurities. Each notice is absolutely official. The Editor will not be responsible for errors in articles unless the time and date are written out in full when they are sent in.

STRIKE OF STUDENTS

A number of students in El Azhar University, Egypt, struck on Monday morning. Their demands are chiefly for internal reform, but the strike is also a protest against the recent rule that Azhar students must mix in politics. A section of discontented students devoted themselves to horse-play in the university on Sunday evening. Police guarded the Azhar Mosque on Monday.

MEDS HUSTLE TO TOP LIST IN CAMPAIGN

Subscription Cards Are Pouring In.

1st YEAR PROMINENT.

Five Year Installment Plan, Starting Jan. 1st, Proves Big Boon.

That the Medical boys are heart and soul supporters of the financial campaign is evident from the way that the subscription cards are pouring in from that faculty. Results to date are far above that deemed possible by anyone, and all indications lead one to think that the "Meds" are going to set a very speedy pace and one difficult for others to follow.

A great number of cards have not been handed in yet and should be turned in to-day, if possible, to Keith Hutchison, R. L. Hamilton, or to the year presidents.

Owing to the easy payments afforded in the five-year installment plan, and also to the fact that the first payment does not fall due until January 1st, many find this an excellent and easy way of contributing to the great cause of their Alma Mater.

Medicine is certainly expressing her spirit, which is especially noticeable among the first years, and is showing that she deeply appreciates what is being done for her and the University at large. But she does not intend to let her undertaking rest at the results so far attained. The students backing up this work hope that every Med. will put his shoulder to the wheel and do his best to have his faculty come out on top.

Keep up the good work, Meds.

Shaughnessy's men. Probably the main reason for this proposed change is the fact that Cassells is keen to get strong defensive players behind his scrimmage to offset the stellar work of the Red and White line plungers, who have done considerable damage to the Blue and White line this season. At any rate it appears like a sacrifice of long punting for the sake of stronger defense work. On the line Varsity will be strengthened by the inclusion of Westman at left middle. He has been out for three weeks with a wrenched shoulder, but is reported as again fit for the fray. Harry Hobbs, Varsity's star half, will be back at quarter which fact is causing great jubilation among the Blue and White supporters.

Unfavorable weather conditions have hampered the practices at McGill, as well as Varsity, to a slight degree this week, but still the players, under the guidance of Coach Shaughnessy, have put in a hard five days' training and will go into the game to-morrow in condition to put up the hardest fight of their lives to keep the Intercollegiate honors in rugby at Old McGill. While not openly expressing any definite opinions as to the outcome, the officials and players of the team are satisfied that the Red and White has a good chance to capture the long end of the score.

Yesterday afternoon the men worked out against the Junior squad for two hours on a snow covered field and continued to show the same pep that has been in evidence at practices throughout the past two weeks. The new plays were all tried out and worked to the satisfaction of all. Just who will start in the game for McGill is not definitely known but in all probability the same squad that faced Varsity two weeks ago will line up at Kingston to-morrow. With Flanagan out in uniform again the team is at full strength. "Flin" will most likely start on the half line with Little and "Dink" Carroll, while Anderson will perform at flying wing. Don Baillie should be found at his old position at quarter with Nicholson and Parkins playing for the last time with McGill at outside wing. These two speedy artists will graduate in the spring so that Saturday should be their last appearance with the McGill squad. Ross and Notman will be bucking through at the middle wing positions aided by "Silk" Murphy and Ambridge at inside. The scrimmage will most likely be made up of McGregor, Livshin and Lazier. Among the spares is a new face on the first squad in the person of "Gilt" Jones, who has been showing remarkable stuff with the second team this season, while Leo Timmins (who was injured earlier in the season, has been out at practices and will in all probability be carried as a substitute.

Last night at the training table "Buster" Reid, veteran of two former play-offs, having starred on the line for McGill in 1912 and 1914, was among those present and added his quota of assistance to help the team to victory. In this he will have the

GIFT TO MCGILL BY MACCABAEANS

Maccabean Circle Donates $200 Towards McGill Centennial Fund.

At the regular meeting of the Maccabean Circle of McGill, held at their rooms on Wednesday evening, the question of the McGill Campaign was raised. As a result it was unanimously decided to donate two hundred dollars from the Circle's treasury to the fund. This contribution is quite apart from individual personal contributions from the members, and speaks well for the Circle's spirit for Old McGill.

Another important matter was the announcement that several hundred dollars had been collected from the students for their brethren in Eastern Europe who are at present sorely in need of aid. This money is to be turned over to the Intercollegiate Menorah Association, who are conducting the campaign throughout the United States and Canada.

The literary programme included as the main item an interesting and highly instructive paper on "The Psychology of the Jew," by Otto Klineberg, M.A. Mr. Klineberg treated the subject impartially from every point of view. He brought out clearly the fact that the psychology of the Jew, though containing traditional characteristics is mainly moulded by his environment, and traced the influence of this environment on his present psychology. The paper was one from which anyone could have derived benefit.

Tickets for the Circle's annual dance were distributed at the meeting. This dance will take place next Thursday evening. A few tickets are still available, and these can be obtained from any executive member or from different men in the faculties.

PUNISHMENT

Several fellows who were found guilty of breaking the traditions of the University of Southern California in regard to smoking on the campus, have been punished for their offenses by being clothed in hideous purple and yellow costumes, locked in the stocks at the athletic field and heavily bastinadoed on the soles of their feet.

FIFTY-FIFTY

When a man and girl eat together or ride in a street car, or attend a theatre, since the immemorial, the man has paid the bills. Is that fair to him? Some students in Boston College think not and have formed an organization which they call the "Fifty-fifty Co-eds" pledged to equal sharing of the price of bon-bons and street car fare.

assistance of every graduate and student of the University, not to mention the support of the many outside McGill supporters. Rugby is the sole topic of the day around college and that the student body is out to help as far as possible is evidenced by the large number who will go down to root and by the numerous pools that have been run in the very classes, that every department of the University might be well represented at the momentous struggle.

To give details of the plays as they are made at the game at Kingston, the "Daily" has arranged for a special wire to the Union where all students who are unable to make the trip will be informed as to the progress of the battle.

Reid's Limited

344 ST. CATHERINE STREET WEST,

For many years have furnished haberdashery to McGill men—hundreds of them. There's a reason for this patronage—in fact there are several reasons.

In the first place we carry the sort of men's furnishings that college men like at as low prices as you'll find anywhere. We're right near the University and you are sure here of prompt, courteous attention.

If you are going to Kingston to see the Red and White win the championship, you'll need some new haberdashery. If you stay here you'll need some for the celebration. In any event you win a bet by coming to REID'S.

CENTENNIAL FUND NEARS FINAL MARK

Large Sums Promised If the Objective Is Reached.

$3,155,869 TO DATE.

Undergraduates Urged To Help On the Good Work
All They Can.

By mid-day yesterday the total subscriptions raised for the Centennial Endowment Fund had reached the figure of $3,155,869. In addition to this, $1,000,000 will probably be received as a contribution from the Government of Quebec, and it is rumored also that large sums have been promised if the total of five million dollars is reached.

Dean Adams was the speaker at the campaign luncheon in St. Lawrence Hall yesterday. In his speech he emphasized what is generally felt to be the most pressing need of the University at the moment, namely the erection of students' residences. The students will benefit immeasurably from these, both in the matter of more healthy living conditions and of increased association with one another.

The graduates' organization of British Columbia is so far second only to that of Montreal in the list of subscriptions received from graduate organizations all over the country. It has adopted the slogan: "Help to place McGill where her position will never be challenged. The greater her name the better for us."

The campaign committee has written to Captain Bainsfather to express its thanks for his cartoon, which appeared in last Wednesday's "Star."

It has been decided to hold the final campaigners' dinner at the Windsor Hotel on Wednesday next. The complete returns of the campaign will not be available until then.

So far, the figures of subscriptions to the fund from students themselves is not known, but it is believed that they indicate that the students are doing their bit towards the achievement of the objective. This is as it should be. Although the expenses of college education weigh heavily enough as it is on their financial resources, the students ought to be the first to weigh in with the odd dollar, as they will, after all, be the first to benefit from the results of the campaign. Remember, you aren't prevented from contributing by being dead broke now! The first installment of your subscription isn't due till January 1st. Remember, too, that it is at times like this that your loyalty to Old McGill is really put to the test. Anyone can go to a football game and shout "Rah! Rah! Rah! — McGill!" but when there is a question of a bit of real personal sacrifice — well, then the wheat is separated from the chaff!

ROOTERS HELD RALLY AT UNION

Plans Formed For Saturday
—"Teedles" In Charge—
Meet at G. T. Station.

Last evening at 5.10 in the Union there was a gathering of the Rooters who intend going to Kingston next Saturday morning to support our team in their big fight with Toronto for the "first honors in rugby." "Teedles" Thompson and "Joe" Wain were both present at the meeting and explained briefly the plans of the club for Saturday's trip.

The boys will all meet at Bonaventure station and take the 8.30 train for Kingston.

Latest reports from Varsity are that they are massing their rooters into a highly organized body and intend sending down to the limestone city, just as many as they are allowed to. If McGill is to keep her Rooters' name up to the level which it held at the last showing a few weeks ago, then all those going with the Red and White team must stick together and do their best until after the game.

"Teedles" and "Joe" are both accompanying and will be in charge. At present they are doing their utmost to bring about a good time for their followers.

That this will be one of the best outings to which McGill Rooters have had for some time is obvious. The hum and order of plans and interest taken by all proves that a "live" time is in store for all able to take in the excursion. So, you—try to do your bit to show the Varsity rooters up by going, if possible, next Saturday.

JUNIORS TO BE HONORED BY SIR ARTHUR CURRIE

Lady Currie Will Also Attend Historic Junior Prom. On Nov. 26 — Many Other Distinguished Guests To Be Present.

Preparations for the Junior Prom are going on apace, and there is no doubt whatever that this year's function will, like its predecessors, be by far the most all-round successful social event of the session. It is strange that this should always be so, but the fact remains. The exact origin of the Junior dance is not known, nor why it became a regular institution. It is held on the same date every year, November 26th. Members of the Junior year have the first chance of obtaining tickets, though members of other years are allowed to attend if there are any left over. The fact that this year there will be only Juniors present, as the demand for tickets from third year men has exceeded the supply, will be one of a number of reasons why this year's dance will exceed even its predecessors in interest and brilliance.

Many distinguished guests will be present. These include Sir Arthur and Lady Currie, Dean Adams, Dean Birkett, Dr. and Mrs. Nicholson, Major and Mrs. George C. MacDonald, Principal Harrison of Macdonald College, Dr. Cyrus B. Macmillan, Dr. and Mrs. Chipman and others, including representatives from the Junior years of Toronto and Queen's.

All but the very greenest freshmen will know that the music will be the best obtainable when they hear that this will be provided by Berliner's orchestra, of the Ritz-Carlton. The refreshments also will be of a high standard of excellence, and the fact that more is being spent on decorations than ever before should mean that these, too, will be something out of the ordinary. Another innovation which has been adopted this year will be the playing of Hail! Alma Mater as the guests enter the hall. This will take place at 8.45, and will signify the opening of the dance. The programme of dances has now been decided on, and is appended below:

- 1—Waltz.
- 2—One-step.
- 3—Fox trot.

ARTS MEN URGED TO GIVE FREELY

Subscription Cards Should Be In To-Day.

The latest news of the drive for the McGill Centennial Endowment Fund in the Arts Faculty is very favorable. Cards were distributed two days ago, and should if possible be returned to the collectors to-day in order to figure on the closing day's list.

It was discovered on inquiry that a good many of the students' parents had not as yet been approached directly by McGill canvassers. By interesting the students themselves in the Faculty total it is hoped that they may by the exercise of a little diplomacy be able to loosen the paternal purse-strings in favor of Old McGill. The undergraduate, who has not been forced at one time or another to use his powers of persuasion for a "touch" is rare, and he will now have an opportunity of using his wits for a less selfish purpose.

As is the case with other faculties it has been found that the most popular form of giving is the one on a basis of five annual payments. Most men can surely afford to give five dollars a year for the next five years for such an exceptional cause as the present one.

The Faculty of Medicine by its energetic canvassing has challenged the other Faculties of the University. It is up to the Arts men to give for the honor of the Faculty. Hand your canvasser, to-day.

We could not foresee the rush that has come. The service of our dealers has been taxed to the utmost. We fear some customers may have suffered from this condition.

May we urge all who can to come in the morning hours. We want to give the service we are accustomed to give.

The reason for this rush is that Fall Suits and Overcoats are selling at new low prices. They are low because the prices of woollens and other materials have come down. They are all hand-tailored in the accepted new styles for Fall. Come in the morning hours if possible.

NEWFOUNDLAND CLUB DINNER ATTRACTIVE

A Number Of Prominent Guests Entertained.

WELL SUPPORTED.

About One Hundred Members Spend a Most Enjoyable Evening.

One may easily distinguish the Newfoundlanders of the University his morning, by the happy contented look which is apparent on their faces. It is the direct result of last night's dinner held in the Union Cafeteria.

Practically one hundred per cent of the club was present, doing full justice to the splendid catering of Mr. Darvill.

Promptly at 8:15 the members took their seats, with the president, C. F. Davis, Arts '22, radiant at the head of the table. Amongst the guests were: Sir Thomas Roddick, M.D., LL.D., F.R.C.S., Col. G. E. Renoux, Col. Peters, D.S.O., M.D., Rev. W. T. Bradbury, B.A., B.D., and Mr. W. H. Hatcher, M.Sc. The first mentioned was unfortunately unable to attend.

After the festive board had been swept clean of its bountiful supply, the president headed the toast list by the toast of the king. Col. Peters then proposed that of McGill in a manner which portrayed the genuine affection which exists in all of McGill's graduates. He spoke of the importance of the University, the vast number of countries represented by its students, and of the importance of manly conduct due from all connected with the College.

Mr. W. H. Hatcher, in responding, impressed upon those present the feeling of comradeship which existed between all graduates. He traced his experiences at McGill both as an undergraduate and as a lecturer. Mr. Hatcher is working at present for his Ph.D. and his success is earnestly wished by all.

Then there followed the election of officers for the coming year. The following were returned:

President—C. F. Davis, Arts '22, re-elected.

Vice-President—A. Jackman, Med. '23, re-elected.

Secretary—G. Bishop, Arts '23, re-elected.

Treasurer—A. Johnson, Com. '21, re-elected.

Reporter—H. Way, Law '23, elected.

The final toast of the evening was proposed by Rev. W. J. Bradbury, in a brief manner. Col. Renoux in response gave his hearers a treat in the line of after-dinner speeches. With his usual wit and humor, aided by his great memory, he told of many episodes of his youthful days in Newfoundland and also dwelt for a space upon the enormity of the ignorance which the outside world has with respect to the youngest Dominion.

Altogether the evening was a most enjoyable one. Being the first function attempted by the club, its success was rather a matter of speculation, but now there is no doubt in the mind of every Newfoundland at McGill. The club will flourish and will continue to be a band to draw Newfoundlanders together at McGill. Also, as the constitution states, it will promote the interests of McGill University in Newfoundland.

GRIDIRON GRIST

(By "FIELD GOAL")

There is one factor which sometimes has a very marked bearing on the result of a play-off, like that being staged to-morrow. This factor is over-confidence on the part of one of the teams. Neither 'Varsity nor McGill should be subject to this feeling as a result of this season's games. Probably two teams never went into a final deciding game with the dope giving them such equal chances to win. The records of the rival fourteen's this year give neither of them any edge as regards the winning of this play-off. Both teams are going to be at full strength from all accounts, and they are trained to the minute. The spirit to win is strong in both aggregations, and the fans ought to be given one of the most exciting and best exhibitions of Intercollegiate Football ever put on.

With the choice of Macaulay and Constantine as the officials for the big game, the teams and the fans are assured of having this match handled in the best possible manner. Macaulay is a graduate of R.M.C. When he was in attendance at the Military College he was a member of both the Senior Rugby and Senior Hockey teams. His handling of the game here on November 6th between 'Varsity and McGill was all that could be desired. He is quick and firm in his decisions, and will not be talked to by either side. Lieut.-Col. C. F. Constantine, who will be the second official, is Artillery Instructor at R.M.C. Before the war, Constantine was an officer in the R.C.H.A. He saw very long service in France as a staff officer, battery commander, and finally as C.O. 5th Brigade, C.F.A. He has the D.S.O. a Bar and the Legion d'Honneur. Col. Constantine has handled several Intercollegiate games last year and this season, and is on the job every minute.

It is doubtful whether Taylor will be seen on the Toronto line-up on Saturday. Snyder played in Taylor's place against Queen's. The "Varsity," the Toronto University paper, has the following to say with regard to Snyder's work: "Snyder replaced Taylor at centre half and ran brilliantly. He was a great ground gainer and good defensively, but his punting was very erratic." Apparently he is just the reverse to Taylor, whose kicking is good but whose defensive work is weak.

McGill is considerably lighter than the Blue and White on the line but more effective. The Red and White this year has got the defensive game down to about the finest point ever seen in the Intercollegiate. Every time that we think of the game to-morrow it is comforting to recall the way the 'Varsity line plungers were stopped in their plays in the game here on November 6th. The Toronto men would get started and then apparently strike a solid impenetrable wall, and not another foot would be gained if they were not forced back for a loss. The McGill plays were much more effective. If the game was being played by the wing lines exclusively, the Red and White would be well away. It is the Toronto back division that is the Blue and White's hope. To offset them we have a back division well able to hold their own, and, if anything, they are much less given to fumbling than that of 'Varsity.

This will be "Red" MacKenzie's second play-off for the Blue and White. He was one of the stars of the deciding contest in 1914. In all the games MacKenzie has figured in in the Intercollegiate League, that of last Saturday was the first one in which he ever scored a touchdown. He carried the ball across the line twice at least last Saturday. MacKenzie did all the kicking for 'Varsity in the second half of the play-off in 1914, and was good. Earlier in the same season he had essayed to take care of the punting for 'Varsity in the McGill game in Montreal, and was a complete failure. He is erratic, and if Taylor does not play to-morrow, 'Varsity may rely on "Red" to do their punting. This might be to the advantage of McGill.

The sale of tickets continues. Something over 600 have now been disposed of by the Students' Council. Complete cars have been reserved on the special train by some of the graduates. Among these are Walter Molson, Gordon MacKinnon and Ross Sims. There will be two special trains, at least. If the weather shows any signs of becoming milder, a great many more undergraduates and graduates will take the trip.

ing her with the murder of her husband, John Smith, on September 18th, 1920, by administering to him oxalic acid, she pleaded "Not Guilty" in a voice singularly sweet and clear but utterly devoid of emotion.

Witnesses were then called, the first being Doctor Taylor, for the Crown, who stated on examination that he had been called in by his colleague, Dr. Stevenson, to conduct a post-mortem examination on the exhumed body of the late Mr. Smith. His evidence showed that the viscera exhibited strong traces of the presence of oxalic acid and in sufficient quantities, in his opinion, to cause death. Cross-examined by Mr. Lebeau, for the defence, he conceded that death might also have been caused by alcoholic poison, the symptoms being to a large extent the same, although the chemical analysis of the stomach rather supported the theory that death was caused by the swallowing of oxalic acid.

The second witness for the Crown, Alex. Smith, brother of the deceased man, was then examined and was somewhat at a loss to give the Clerk of the court information as to his occupation, which provoked a great deal of merriment. With considerable fluency he proceeded to give the Court some inside information concerning the Smith ménage, which went to show that the domestic relations were not of the happiest and that the deceased, who was a happy-natured, convivial sort of person, had a strong partiality for strong waters. This had increased since his marriage and witness was earnest in his belief that the direct cause thereof was the perfidy and coldness of the accused.

John Smith, senior, father of the deceased, was the next witness for the Crown. He professed to be a retired hotel-keeper, eighty-seven years of age, and seemed remarkably well-preserved except for a not unnatural thinning of the locks. His evidence showed that his son had married, against his father's wishes, some four years ago, and that as a result an estrangement had taken place which had only been remedied in the past six months. The witness, who seemed to be a somewhat garrulous old gentleman, was anxious to unburden himself of his fond belief that the accused was directly responsible for his son's troubles and increased tendency towards liquor, but the most valuable piece of evidence which was elicited in cross-examination was that the accused had of late been evincing a marked interest in her husband's studies and work as an analytical chemist. This, with all the grave significance it carried for the accused woman, sent a thrill throughout the court-house, and in the attendant excitement two or three spectators perched insecurely at the back of the room fell somewhat heavily on to the floor. Luckily all escaped serious injury. Upon further examination, Mr. Smith pere stated that his son had given him to understand that all of his fortune was to go, in the event of his death, to his old father, and he stated that he was dumbfounded to hear of his son's marriage and the subsequent alteration in his testamentary dispositions.

Dr. Rowton, a chemist, was the next witness, and deposed that the accused had purchased at his drug store a quantity of oxalic acid which she carried away in a whiskey bottle. Other witnesses called were James Swain Jones, butler at the deceased's home, who gave a graphic account of the finding of his master in the bedroom in the paroxysms of poisoning. Dr. Stevenson, witness for the defence, gave it as his opinion that death was due to alcoholic poisoning and not to the effects of oxalic acid.

Accused was then put upon the stand in her own defence, the presiding judge first expressing the hope that her examination would "be as short as she was long." Again resorting to an unrestricted use of her eyes, she answered the questions put to her in an unnecessarily demure manner, which almost smacked of the insincere. She stated that her married life had been a happy one, and a child had been born of the union in 1917. After this time, however, her husband's affections waned and a coolness ensued as a result of the husband's immoderate use of alcohol. She stated that the oxalic acid which she had purchased had been for the purpose of removing ink-stains from her coat, and after using about ten drops of the acid she placed the remainder on her husband's bureau. Her supposition was that her husband had taken this in mistake for his usual beverage, alcohol.

This concluded the evidence, and the final speeches were then made by the respective counsel. The judge then delivered his charge to the jury, who retired to consider their verdict. However, after a prolonged absence, their foreman reported that no agreement had been reached. As a consequence the accused was allowed to go upon her personal bail, and a new trial ordered.

Too much credit for a very satisfactory evening's profitable entertainment cannot be given to the Hon. Mr. Justice Greenhields, whose unfailing good humor and ready wit was the outstanding feature of the whole trial. The ready tolerance with which he smoothed over the all-too-evident technical difficulties and tactfully corrected the blunders of the opposing lawyers, no less than

BOYS' CLUB OPENED BY UNDERGRADS

Social Service Club Taking Up Boys' Work.

VOLUNTEER.

Exceptional Opportunity For Service Offered To Interested Students.

All a boy needs is a decent chance, and this is what the McGill Social Service Club is giving to those boys of the city who are living in an environment of hopelessness.

The club, backed by the Iverley Settlement, is organizing a club for boys from eleven to sixteen years of age. This Boys' Club has already opened in the basement of the Children's Hospital, not far from the Settlement. Only one room is in use at the present time, but a second, and probably a third room will be available before long. A gymnasium, which always appeals strongly to such boys, has been procured in a school nearby. Thirty boys were present at the opening of the club last Monday evening. Whatever they may lack, they have plenty of "pep." The membership should be doubled within a short time.

A few days ago the Social Service Club asked for experienced workers from among the students to take charge of this work. The replies received proved that an unusual amount of interest is being taken in this branch of service. E. C. Amaron and Robertson have been chosen from among the large number of applicants. Each will devote two evenings a week to the boys. Bentley, an experienced worker from the Central Y.M.C.A., will look after the boys for one evening each week, and will be found invaluable in promoting their physical development.

It was at first planned to keep the club open for four nights a week. The Iverley Settlement has been so generous in its support, and such a large number of students have shown interest in boys' work, that the club rooms will be open to the boys six evenings a week.

Many students will remember the Newsboys' Supper which the Social Service Club held in Strathcona Hall last winter. Not a few of the students who took part in that experiment showed a large amount of interest in the boys. Such men are especially urged to take a more prominent part in carrying out this part of the club's programme.

Fifty boys asking for a chance. What will you offer?

TRUMPETER SWANS

A colony of Trumpeter swans, a species of bird that has been considered almost extinct, has been found in Canada and is now being protected by the Dominion Parks branch of the federal government, which considers that it has a rare prize. Moving pictures of the bird exhibited before the recent international convention for the protection of bird life created a sensation.

The colony consists of 50 to 100 swans. Its location is kept secret; for if its whereabouts were known, it is quite probable that an attempt would be made to lure away these very rare specimens. However, it can be said that they are located in one of the great national parks. The swans have shown a tendency to be international in their journeyings and for some time it was feared that they would be lost to the United States; but recently they have kept to the northern side of the boundary.

The Trumpeter swan is a native of the northwest portions of North America, being known also in Europe and Asia. It is a very handsome bird, pure white in color, with bill, legs and feet of black.

The bird frequently measures 56 inches from the tip of the bill to the tip of the tail, the neck being as long as the body. The average weight is 20 pounds and upwards. It was formerly very common around the Great Lakes and in Western Canada, but with the rapid advance of settlement it has been driven north, and has been rapidly disappearing.

The branch is seldom better than the stem.—Danish Proverb.

Lilies that fester smell far worse than weeds.—Shakespeare's Sonnets.

his genial presence, added much to the enjoyment of those present.

Thanks are also due to the executive of the Law Undergraduates' Society, who through the kind ministrations of Miss Sims, were enabled to provide a very creditable repast. On the whole, the "Faculty of Laws" first Mock Trial this year will bear repetition.

On To Victory!

Before you go to the game at Kingston see how R. J. Tooke's have kicked holes in High Prices of Men's Suits and Overcoats.

Suits for $20.00 and $25.00 sound like the good old days of 1914, when most of us went to Uncle Jack's Shop.

Prices are away

Are We Downhearted? Foolish Question!!!

(We are pulling hard for the Shagmen, because as a Fighting Football Machine, they have demonstrated conclusively that they possess the essential of QUALITY.

This applies equally to "Riley" Hern Clothes which appeal to the discriminating student because they measure up to his ideal both as to texture and style.
